

GENERAL INFORMATION

Congratulations on being drawn for the Marble Mountains Roosevelt Elk Hunt! The hunt area is generally heavily forested, steep, and rugged. Elk do not occur throughout the entire area so gathering information in advance of your hunt will likely be useful. We have prepared the following information to help you have a successful hunting experience.

REGULATIONS

All hunters should read and be familiar with regulations contained in the 2003 Hunting Regulations for Mammals and Furbearers. Section 708 describes the Marble Mountains Roosevelt Elk hunt area and hunting season. Most elk within the hunt area occur on public lands, however, occasionally animals are found on private property. Remember you must obtain written permission to hunt on private property and hunter trespass laws are strictly enforced.

PUBLIC LAND

Most public land within the hunt area is administered by the Klamath National Forest. The primary access into the hunt area is Highway 96 and Forest Highway 93 along the Salmon River. Many county and National Forest roads provide good access to public lands. Please be aware that some National Forest roads may be closed to vehicle access during the hunting season to protect natural resources or because they are impassible. Generally, these areas are open to hunting provided access is made by non-motorized vehicle.

MAPS

Maps of the hunt area are available from the Klamath National Forest at 1312 Fairlane Road in Yreka, California 96097, or by calling (530) 841-4569 or (530) 841-4484. Klamath National Forest maps are $6.00 each and provide general information regarding the location of public lands and roads within the hunt area. District transportation maps are also available for $2.00 each. These maps depict many roads not identified on the general National Forest map. The Happy Camp and Oak Knoll district transportation maps will likely be the most useful to you. Forest maps may also be ordered by calling (530) 647-5390 or online at www.fs.fed.us/recreation/nationalforeststore/.

WEATHER

Weather in this region is highly variable. It may be quite warm but early storms are common. Snow during your hunting season would be unusual but heavy rains can occur making some roads impassable. You should be prepared with appropriate clothing and equipment for a variety of weather conditions.

CAMPING

Camping is available at National forest campgrounds and is usually permitted at undesignated sites on the forest. Please refer to the Klamath National Forest map for the locations of designated campgrounds or contact the Klamath National Forest for further information.

ELK HUNTING

For the past several years individuals who have participated in the Marble Mountains Roosevelt Elk Hunt have been mailed a questionnaire to gain insight into their hunting experience and to collect information regarding the distribution of elk within the hunt area.

Among surveyed individuals, hunter success has averaged 57%, ranging from 46-71%. Most hunters (an average of 82%) reported seeing elk, and 58% of survey respondents heard elk bugle while hunting. Several hunters attempted to bugle or cow call and an average of 49% (range 36-68%) reported having elk answer their calls.

Each year hunters are asked to rate their hunting experience from “1” to “5”, with a rating of “1” being excellent and “5” being poor. Those hunters reporting having a favorable experience with “1” or “2” has a range from 50-91%, with an average of 68%.

OUTFITTERS AND GUIDES

Outfitters and guides offer a variety of services for elk hunters interested in hunting in wilderness areas. Many have limited space so be sure to contact them as soon as possible to reserve their services. A list of outfitters and guides permitted by the US Forest Service within the hunt area is available from the Klamath National Forest. Please be sure any guides you retain have a current guide license issued by the Department of Fish and Game.

CARE OF MEAT

Conditions during the elk hunting season can be quite warm. The weather and the steep, rugged terrain within the hunt area make it critical you are prepared to properly care for the meat if you harvest an animal. You should be prepared to skin and quarter or bone your elk immediately after it is tagged. The meat should be hung in flyproof breathable sacks in the shade until you pack it out. If you are hunting by yourself, you will need, at minimum, four game sacks, plenty of rope, a game hoist, a knife, a knife sharpener, and a pack frame. A meat saw or hatchet and a tarp would also likely be helpful. Black bear are abundant within the hunt area so caution is warranted if meat is left unattended.
